The University College of Teacher Education Vienna (Pädagogische Hochschule Wien) actively engages in international cooperation through various initiatives, including student and staff mobility, and collaborative projects. The university college maintains a robust network of over 100 partner institutions across Europe, particularly in Central and Eastern Europe. The University College of Teacher Education Vienna puts great effort into making the teaching profession its focal point. Education, Training and Continuing Professional Development, in conjunction with research ensure that the demands of the teaching profession and other related educational professional fields are met in a sustained manner. These efforts require education to be based on educational science, teaching methodology, subject didactics and teaching practice. The high strength of the University College of Teacher Education Vienna lies in the confluence of research-based educational competencies in all educational fields and across all age groups, which are strongly embedded in professional practice.

Experience of your HEI in international cooperation (mobilities, projects, available study programmes in English language):
BOKU is the only Austrian university to focus on Natural Resources and Life Sciences in its broadest sense. International collaboration therefore was always crucial for BOKU. BOKU holds several ERC starting grant professorships and one UNESCO Chair. In the last years, it appointed more than 50 new professors, opened new laboratories, office buildings and lecture halls. Special emphasis of BOKU's activities is also research for development (R4D); BOKU was the first Austrian university to include R4D in its strategy for internationalisation and to establish an Institute for Development Research. Since the beginning of ERASMUS more than 30 years ago, BOKU is exchanging students and staff with partner universities worldwide – currently, BOKU has more than 160 bilateral ERASMUS+ agreements, and appx. 90 additional partner universities within the Central Eastern European Programme for University Studies (CEEPU). Over 90 co-operation agreements with other universities worldwide also lead to a significant experience in student and staff mobilities. BOKU was one of only 2 Austrian universities who joined a European University Alliance (EPICUR) in the first selection round in 2019. With regard to international projects, BOKU has ample experience in coordinating and participating in HorizonEUROPE but also ERASMUS+ (Knowledge Alliances, Capacity Building, Cooperation Partnerships, Jean Monnet, ERASMUS MUNDUS) and other Programmes funded e.g. by the Austrian Development Agency, the OeAD or Networks like ASEA-Uninet, Africa-Uninet, Eurasia-Pacific-Uninet etc. BOKU offers 4 joint degree master programmes, 9 double/multiple degree masters and 10 doctoral schools. 11 of these jointly offered master programmes are taught in English; just as additional 9 English taught master programmes offered at BOKU. All doctoral studies can be completed in English, and two English bachelors are currently being planned.
