Christina RAAB was born in Salzburg in 1974. She holds a diploma degree („Mag. rer. nat.“) in Psychology and is a doctoral candidate (topic: implementation and feasibility of flexible curriculum structures in consideration of the social dimension).

She has been working as the Bologna Coordinator at the University of Innsbruck since 2008 and was instrumental in the University of Innsbruck being awarded the Diploma Supplement Label in 2011 and the ECTS Label in 2013. From 2012 till its formal ending in 2014/2015 Christina Raab was a member of the European RPL Network. Since then she has initiated specific projects and has been part of many (related) working groups. She is also part of a national RPL Network which is recently (2021) implemented. In 2014 she was nominated „National Expert for the European Higher Education Area“ and became deputy head of the Aurora European University Office in Innsbruck in 2020.

Her daily work involves teaching and curriculum-development (incl. administrative requirements and needs), quality issues and the consideration of the social dimension and social impact of higher education (including recognition, quality assured permeability but also the Sustainable Development Goals and Sustainability in a wider sense).

She deals with (institutional) implementation challenges concerning the objectives of the Bologna process and the objectives of Aurora (European Universities Alliance) on a daily base and supports to the best of her ability a transition to more flexible, inclusive (mobile) learning paths.
